

The OU Women's and Gender Studies Program

Center for Social Justice

Affiliate Faculty Application

1. Description of Faculty Affiliation

The Center for Social Justice includes many affiliate faculty members from a variety of departments across campus. Affiliate faculty are members of the University of Oklahoma community whose teaching, research and creative activity are substantially concerned with promoting equal opportunities and equal rights by fighting discrimination based on gender, class, race, ethnicity, religion, age, nationality, disability, and sexual orientation. Affiliate status with the Center for Social Justice includes numerous benefits including: the opportunity to engage with other University of Oklahoma faculty who are interested in social justice issues, access to a broad network of campus and community activist partners, support for faculty events and presentations, opportunities for social justice advocacy, and the facilitation of collaborations regarding social justice courses and research.

2. Criteria and Application Instructions

If you wish to apply for membership to the CSJ affiliate faculty, please complete the application below. For more information on other ways to become involved in the CSJ please visit our website at <http://csj.ou.edu/>, or contact the Center for Social Justice by phone (405-325-5787) or e-mail Center.for.Social.Justice@ou.edu

Note: All faculty members affiliated with Women's and Gender Studies are automatically affiliated with the CSJ unless they specifically request otherwise to the WGS Director. CSJ affiliates are not automatically affiliated with Women's and Genders Studies. For more information on how to become a WGS affiliate, please contact the Women's and Gender Studies Program at 405-325-3481 or visit their website at <http://wgs.ou.edu/>
